Basik & 2501 collaborate on a new mural in Ancona, Italy

Basik and 2501 recently spent some time near Ancona in Italy where they've been invited to create a new piece on this beautiful train station.

The Italian Street Art duo joined forces and brushes and created "Alfa E Omega", a black and gold piece which is featuring each artist's distinctive style and imagery. Black wavy lines for 2501 and black hands for Basik.

Continue reading for a closer look at this artwork and keep your eyes peeled on StreetArtNews for more mural updates from Italy.

Black wavy lines? I get it but these are complicated pieces. The work underneath the Serra S.Q sign is perhaps the finest I've seen from him.
